Fall's biggest party

The Emmys celebrate television's best

By Francis Babin

TV Media

Fall is nearly here, and that means it's time for cozy sweaters, pumpkin spice everything and the new prime-time television season. After a summer of repeats, it's finally time for our returning favorites and a new crop of aspiring series.

With both new and old shows vying for our attention, we set aside an evening to look back at the past year and celebrate television's outstanding achievements. See the stars, relive the best moments and have a good time with the 70th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards, airing Monday, Sept. 17, on NBC.

This marks the first time in four years that the peacock network will broadcast the event, and it looks to showcase its bright, young talent with "Saturday Night Live" Weekend Update anchors Michael Che and Colin Hanks as MCs for the ceremony. Following Stephen Colbert's ("The Late Show with Stephen Colbert") tremendous performance from last year will be no easy feat, but despite the pressure, the pair is ready to tear down the Microsoft Theater in downtown Los Angeles.

In an interview with Vanity Fair, Che and Hanks discussed how the Emmys will be a nice change of pace from the constant political topics they cover on Weekend Update. "The exciting part is to do things about television and that particular awards ceremony and make it, in general, less political than normal," Hanks said. "There's a lot to celebrate in television right now. It's a very strong time."

Hanks is spot on — we're currently in a new golden age of television. When the nominations were announced by Ryan Eggold ("The Blacklist") and Samira Wiley ("Orange Is the New Black") back in July, this was made very clear. The usual complaints followed the announcements, but they quickly dissipated. Instead of focusing on the snubs, people turned their attention to the many surprises and first-time nominations. For instance, this year marks the first time in its nine-year run that the ABC hit "Modern Family" wasn't nominated for Outstanding Comedy Series — a nod the single-camera comedy has consistently secured since 2009.

History was made when Sandra Oh became the first Asian actress nominated for Best Actress in a Drama for her excellent performance in "Killing Eve," while Jessica Biel ("The Sinner"), Matt Smith ("The Crown") and Nikolaj Coster-Waldau ("Game of Thrones") all received nominations for the first time.

"Game of Thrones" leads the pack with an impressive 22 nominations, followed closely by its HBO counterpart "Westworld" with 21. The legendary "Saturday Night Live" also raked in 21 nods. Not far behind is Hulu heavyweight "The Handmaid's Tale" and FX's "The Assassination of Gianni Versace: American Crime Story" with 20 and 18 nominations, respectively, with the latter looking to take home the Outstanding Limited Series award.

'Nappily Ever After' debuts on Netflix

WHAT'S NEW:

A new comedy-drama film, "Nappily Ever After," is coming to Netflix on Friday, Sept. 21. "Love & Basketball" (2000) actress Sanaa Lathan stars as Violet Jones, a woman who's got everything together — she has the career, the boyfriend and the polished, perfect look she's worked hard for her whole life. She's disappointed, however, by receiving a puppy instead of a proposal for her birthday from her boyfriend, Clint, and she breaks off the relationship to start a new journey on her own. Violet begins a new path of self-discovery by shaving off the hair she's been relaxing since she was a child. Embracing her natural hair gives Violet the confidence to rebuild her life, put herself first and let go. Director Haifaa Al-Mansour has made a career of telling the stories of women blazing their own trails. Before "Nappily Ever After," Al-Mansour directed a biopic about the pioneer of modern science fiction, "Mary Shelley" (2017), and "Wadjda" (2012), about a Saudi girl who raises money to buy the green bicycle with which she's become enamored. Adapted from the first book in Trisha R. Thomas' eight-book series, "Nappily Ever After" has been a long time in the making, with Halle Berry attached to the lead role almost 15 years ago. With the recent resurgence of romantic comedies on Netflix, the film has finally found its perfect fit. Check out "Nappily Ever After," premiering on Netflix on Friday, Sept. 21.

Sanaa Lathan in "Nappily Ever After"

BINGE THIS:

Nineties kids, rejoice: all five seasons of the iconic sitcom "Living Single" are now available to streaming audiences on Hulu. Queen Latifah ("Chicago," 2002), Kim Coles ("Frasier"), Erika Alexander ("The Cosby Show") and Kim Fields ("The Facts of Life") star as roommates and friends navigating careers and the dating scene in '90s Brooklyn. Creator Yvette Lee Bowser told The Atlantic that the show was a chance for her to share "more well-rounded depictions of ... women and people of color" as television characters, something she saw as lacking at the time. Lee Bowser's relatable characters that portrayed the diversity of black experiences made a lasting impact on its contemporary audiences and still resonate with new fans today. It's been just over 25 years since the show premiered, and just in time to celebrate its quarter-century milestone, "Living Single" became available to stream in full this January after being largely unavailable to fans since its finale. Check out all five seasons of "Living Single" now on Hulu.

Andrew Zimmern rewards mobile eateries in new series

By Andrew Warren

TV Media

Love it or hate it, we live in a culture of tipping. In restaurants especially, leaving some extra moolah at the end of a meal is the norm, and even less-traditional eateries usually have a tip jar or the like.

“Bizarre Foods” host Andrew Zimmern’s new show takes tipping to the next level for restaurants, where every penny earned can help make ends meet: food trucks. “Big Food Truck Tip” premieres with back-to-back episodes on Wednesday, Sept. 19, on Food Network, with Zimmern swinging by two far-flung cities where he checks out some of their hottest mobile eateries — and leaves some whopping tips for his favorites.

Each episode takes the host to a new food truck hot spot, where the host meets with three food truck operators. He doesn’t just try their food — he also gets to know them, learning the stories behind their dishes and getting a feel for what makes them tick.

Running a food truck is no walk in the park, and in each city, Zimmern chooses one of the three businesses he visits to receive a super-sized tip — one worth a whopping $10,000. That’s enough to transform any small business, and the host is clearly overjoyed that he gets to be the bearer of such an incredible windfall.

“Our modern-day food world is blessed to have the extreme ambition, fun attitude, and glorious culinary output of today’s truckers,” he said in a statement. “Micro businesses on wheels, serving up love by the sandwichful, makes looking at this community and telling these stories a real privilege.”

The premiere sees the host visiting Birmingham, Alabama, where he encounters a food truck serving up classic Southern comfort foods to everyone — even the needy who don’t have the means to pay. In the night’s second episode, Zimmern heads to Memphis, Tennessee, where the foodie scene has blown up in recent years. There, he hits up a food truck rally for a fill-up before finding a place serving tacos with a Tennessee twist.

That’s three food trucks visited in each city, but only one gets an incredible $10,000 tip. They’re all deserving, though, and they’re all featured in “Big Food Truck Tip,” premiering Wednesday, Sept. 19, on Food Network.

Q: We still miss our weekly favorite TV show, "Grimm." Will they ever do a followup or a reunion show?

A: Short answer: No. Long answer: Still no, but you can pretend.

For example, you can pretend that the stage play "Guilty Until Proven Innocent," if it ever happens, is a "Grimm" reunion. The play recently went through what's called an industry reading — a sort of dry run for plays, where actors read the script before an audience in the hopes of working out some kinks and maybe drumming up interest from backers.

Among the performers were former "Grimm" stars Reggie Lee (Sgt. Wu), Bree Turner (Rosalee) and Danny Bruno (Bud), and the reading was directed by Terrence O'Hara, who helmed several "Grimm" episodes.

Q: What did Bill Pullman do before "Spaceballs"? How did he get such a big role with so little before it?

A: Basically, Bill Pullman got the "Spaceballs" (1987) role because producer/writer/director Mel Brooks couldn't get either of the other guys he wanted. That might seem harsh, until you know that the other guys he wanted were Tom Cruise and Tom Hanks.

Speaking at a Q&A session after a 2011 screening of the movie, Pullman said that Brooks told him he was only picked after Cruise and Hanks, both huge stars at the time, refused. "He imagined he was going to get a big box office draw at the time and I think he was hurt that they didn't take him up on it, you know?"

His account of the story gets even sadder from there. "But then it configured differently, attracting two of the big comics at that time: John Candy and Rick Moranis. Once that was secured, then he said, 'Heck, I'll get somebody nobody knows!' And I got a chance to do it."

That's overstating it a little, though. He wasn't a complete unknown, having appeared in a supporting role in the hit comedy "Ruthless People" the year before.

The story of the week has been Trump's probaby-snatching agenda, and today it took another weird turn — because to try to humanize these child detention centers, the administration sent their most high-profile detainee, Melania Trump.

This is what first ladies often do: go to a troubled area, see the children, show that we care. You can't mess that up. Guess what? I spoke too soon. Today, on her way to show that she cares, Melania wore a jacket that says, "I Really Don't Care, Do U?" That's what they settled on? What was her first choice, a jacket that says, "Womp, Womp"?
